Creating your own Vocation Garden

COP-26 Glasgow

God calls us to look after our planet and to care for all His creation. Our vocation as God's people is to protect our common home and the resources within it. In November this year the UK will host the 26th UN Climate Change Conference of Parties in Glasgow, between the 31st October and the 12th November 2021. It's one of the biggest global climate change events, with 197 members known as 'parties' to the treaty.

Other organisations will join the event, both inside and outside the conference centre such as charities and businesses. Pope Francis will also be involved with the talks, showing the significance of this event for Catholics around the world and within the UK. Many people from around the UK are planning on taking a pilgrimage to pray for the success of the talks and some will be campaigning outside the conference centre. The National Office for Vocation will be in attendance to run events throughout the city and to promote the call to each individual to become stewards of the earth and how they can live this out in our daily lives.

Why create a Vocation Garden

We understand that not everyone can make it to Glasgow, so we are encouraging schools, youth groups and parishes to make their own Vocation Garden, sowing the seeds for the future, praying for vocations and hearing their call as stewards of the earth.

Tips on setting up a garden:

- Set up a group to assist with the garden and to help nurture it.
- Find a suitable space for growing plants.
- Use your 2 free packs of seeds from the National Office for Vocation to begin.
- Check all the plants are growing on a regular basis and have a group who will regularly water and grow new things.
- Pray, use this as an extra space to pray, pray for your own vocation and hear what God is calling you to do.
- Have a grand opening and invite people along; ask a Priest to come and bless the garden and continue to welcome students, staff and parents.

Most of all have fun!
